

What are Neotropical migratory birds?

Neotropical migratory birds breed, lay eggs and raise young north of the Tropic of Cancer and then migrate to the Neotropics (area in western hemisphere between the Tropics of Cancer and Capricorn) during the non-breeding season.

Photo courtesy of Robert Royse, used with permission (<http://www.roysephotos.com>).

American Redstart

Photo courtesy of Robert Royse, used with permission (<http://www.roysephotos.com>).

Black-throated Blue Warbler

Photo courtesy of Robert Royse, used with permission (<http://www.roysephotos.com>).

Blackpoll Warbler

Cornell Lab of Ornithology, Dan Busby

Bicknell's Thrush